

The Explorers

By Taela Cripps

Once there was four friends with COMPLETELY different personalities Fred- Snoopy and stuck up, Max-Selfish and jealous, Lila- Shy and nervous, Violet- Kind and caring.”

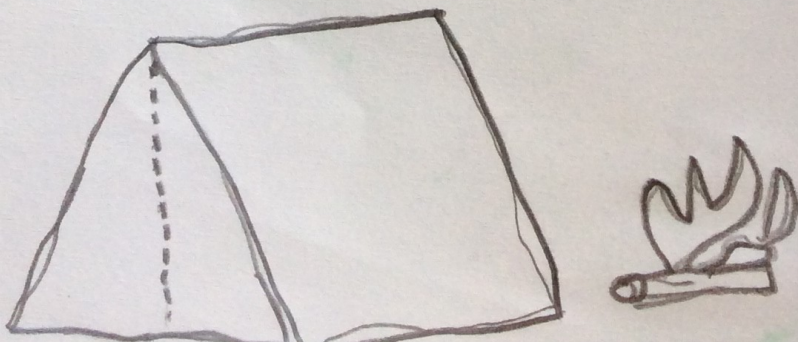

The four friends where in the woods having a look around until... Lila and Violet found a button it was hidden very well, they all chatted about what to do and what it would do and they agreed to press it, and so they did. They pushed the button and then a hole appeared under them and they disappeared in a blink of an eye! After they fell in the hole there was a tunnel and they crawled through and ended up in a forest.

They were looking for signs on rocks and trees and they came across a tree with the words carved “Welcome To The Ancient Forest”, so they knew somebody was either here and died or survived... After a long period of time they came across a crashed plane, they decided to go inside... you won't believe what they found, They found a dead body and noticed it was a plane pilot! They left because of the AWFULL smell.

As they left the plane they started looking for the possibility of there being a person because of the writing on the tree, they looked searched but after a while Max and Fred started to moan "Ugh its SO boring" "I'm hungry" and "I'm thirsty", but Lila and Violet said "If you keep moaning we aren't going to get anywhere". They kept searching as Fred and Max slouched down and they heard somebody shout "HELLO ANYBODY THERE" but they refused to reply. They thought instead of replying they could search for the person. After a while, they eventually found the person and... NO they did not just approach him they watched a while to see if it was safe to come near and he was they came near him and said a very quite "hello" he looked in a shock and they jumped away but then he replied with "Don't be silly what am I going to do to you hurt you" he giggled. They all said no like they weren't scared but he knew they were. After some time they all knew his name it was Sam at that point they were good friends with each other.

After all the days and days of finding they perfect place to make a camp they found a beautiful river so they started to make camp. Lila collected water proof leaves at least as big as her head and waist, Violet collected the big sticks to make the base and the boys collected water and searching for food. Lila collected water proof leaves at least as big as her head and waist, Violet collected the big sticks to make the base and the boys collected water and searching for food.

They bought back the food and bowls and Fred, Max and Sam worked together to make a big line from the river and there camp. In the meanwhile, Lila and Violet make a fire, they found a tiny little metal box full of matches, so they started to make a fire base by using bendy vines to tie it all up. After they had set every thing up they made holes and weaved stick wall for the girls and boys toilets. After the months went by they were survivors they were all still alive healthy and happy.

They also upgraded there tent and made it bigger they all have a room each and they have a little shade canopy made of leaves, and they all have a toilet each. After a few years they started running out of food so they had to make a plan. They all discussed and agreed to stay where they were but just search somewhere else and still come back safely with the map and compass Fred made. Max and Lila went out with the compass, map and a bowl to find food and they were SO lucky they found a high rock wall with a bee hive at the top. They started climbing and when they got to the top Max grabbed hold of the bees hive and then scooped it into the bowl.

They all had food from each time they went out to get some but that also started to run out. Eventually, all the food had ran out they only had the river they started to starve and get ill. After some time, Max died, then Fred, then Sam, Then Lila and now Violet.
