

The ball game

Today Me and Hunahpu were getting ready for our big match, which has been a week of ups and downs. We were both extremely nervous, because if we lost Hunahpu and I will be sacrificed!!

In preparation, we ate a lot of food to give us the much needed energy to help us get through the match.

Hunahpu and I worked out for a bit to get our blood rushing. It was then time to walk to the pitch. On the way there I had the shivers as I was so nervous. We arrived and saw the Lord of Death straight away..... we were very wary of him and soon realised he was trying to use a ball of sharp blades around it. We noticed straight away and refused to play if he was to use the ball of blades. He had to think about it for a bit but he said yes to play against us but not with that ball thankfully.

3,2,1 play.....we started with the ball I hit it to Hunahpu then he hit it and it hit to the Lords and the ball hit the ground, so we got one point! Then they hit it to our side I hit it back to their side. It was very tense, then they had the ball and we missed it so they scored. This put fire in our belly, both of us looked at each other with fear and I thought, we can do this! The game went on and we won the game 9/8 it was such a tight game. We were so happy bouncing around in celebration.

We thought this would be the end of our troubles with the Lord of Death but it might be the end of us as the Lords were so furious they want to kill us!!!
